Happy Friday!

You are required to take a Quizlet “learn” quiz and send me the answers. I am also including some “I am bored” stuff that you might like to try!

Good morning and Hello from Mrs. Cronin!
Today is 5/1/2020

Where To Find Your Work: <https://lynnncronin.weebly.com/>

Learning Objectives: today you will prove that you learned your multiplication tables for the week. Then you will get your well-earned Free Time!

But I have also added a goofy section about what I have been doing over this closed period. I think you will like it!

How to take a screenshot

A screen capture is a picture of your computer screen.

You can screenshot any screen on your computer. I am asking for Quizlet.

The last screen on Quizlet “Learn” will give you a score (like this picture)

On your computer keyboard:
touch Ctrl and Prt Sc (or Fn and Prt Sc)

Then go to your email and paste the picture into the email and send it to me.

This is where the Ctrl/Fn and Prt Sc keys are.

You might have to play with it a little – but now that you know its there you should be able to find it.

Happy May Day!
May brings flowers and May also brings Mother's Day!

I am not about to go shopping so I decided to make Mother's Day flowers for my mom.

I looked up a tutorial for making tissue paper flowers, but I made them from brightly colored newspaper.

They look very cool!

The Instructions I used are here:

<https://www.verywellfamily.com/tissue-paper-flowers-craft-620428>

This is what my first flower looks like.

How I did it

Newspapers scissors, pipe cleaner

Fold paper back and forth

Fold the stack in half

Wrap a pipe cleaner around the middle

Round the edges

Gently separate the pieces and fluff it out

If I make a bunch I can wrap them like flowers in another piece of newspaper and I will have a whole bunch of flowers! (I like the ribbon!)

The Instructions I used are here:

<https://www.verywellfamily.com/tissue-paper-flowers-craft-620428>

My plants are doing well!
Look how tall the onion leaves are!

Last Week

Today

And I found a pineapple!

I carefully followed the directions – and we will see!

This is the video that I watched.

Maybe in a year it will look like the picture on the right!

By the way, I have not tried these, but it's worth a shot – right!

Don't sit around being bored – do something!

Next week I will show you how my plants are growing,
and I will also send you another idea!

Send me a picture of what you are doing!
